Methodist Church Undergoes Repair Work

Painting and repair work are brightening up the Methodist Church on Main Street this week. Reverend C. S. Schultz announced.

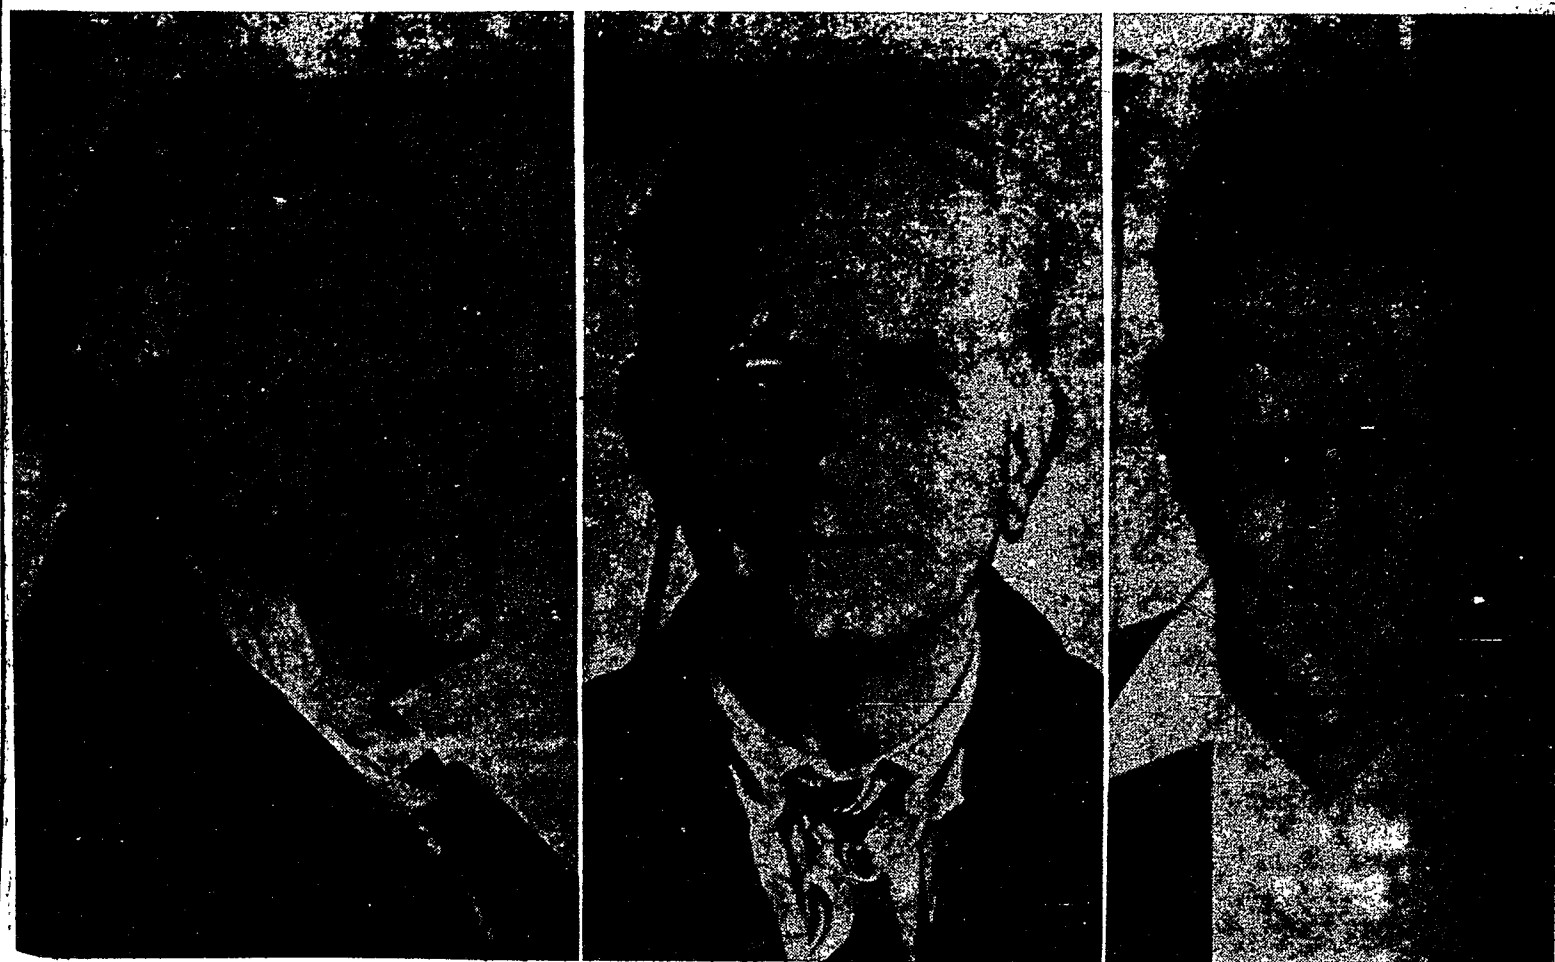

In addition Circle No. 2 of the Women's Society plans to install some new pulpit furniture, Rev. Schultz said.

The repair work around the front and inside of the church will include an enlargement of the dining room. The work will take approximately a month.

Reverend Schultz said the work will not interfere with church services.

W. H. Miller is the contractor for the repair work and Gerald Price will direct the painting.

Daughter Identifies Live Man's Photo As William Dolan But Mother Denies It

ARE ALL OF THESE THE SAME MAN?—The two photos top left are "mug" shots taken by Sacramento police April 2 of a man arrested for vagrancy. The photos top right and right are of William Dolan, who supposedly was buried in February. The FBI says the fingerprints prove these are the same man. Check the photos . . . check the facial features . . . what do you think?

"That's him - that's Daddy," shouted Mrs. Myrtle Graham.

"It's not . . . it's not," answered Mrs. William Dolan.

And thus the mystery of William Dolan - and the man buried in Cedar Rest cemetery - deepened Thursday.

Dolan supposedly was buried Feb. 18 in Bay St. Louis after drowning in New Orleans. But the Dolan fingerprints filed by the FBI didn't jibe with those of the corpse. Then the whole thing broke loose this week when the FBI reported Dolan was arrested for vagrancy in Sacramento, Calif., April 2.

The Sea Coast Echo and the New Orleans States teamed up with a series of photographs from Bay St. Louis and Sacramento, and presented them to Mrs. Dolan.

When the reporter walked in with the pictures, Mrs. Dolan's daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Graham, shouted, "That's him—that's Daddy."

But Mrs. Dolan leaped up and denied it. "That's not Dolan," she said. "It looks like him maybe, but it's not Dolan."

"I figure this man killed Dolan and made off with his clothes and his papers. Naturally he had to look like Dolan to try such a thing."

But all evidence pointed to the fact that Dolan is indeed alive and in the west somewhere. In fact, the state legislature dropped its bill to give Dolan $2,500 for wrongful imprisonment until it could find out where Dolan was.

Mrs. Dolan didn't like this. "It's because my lawyer didn't present the case right," she said.

However, the reader can judge for himself in photographs published today in the Sea Coast Echo.

All of this doesn't answer the question of who is buried in Cedar Rest if the body is not Dolan. It is too late to exhumate the body, because it could no longer be identified by sight. But authorities promised to begin re-checking fingerprints made before the burial.

Clarence Bates, who was one of those who originally identified the body as Dolan, seemed to change his mind Thursday when shown photographs of the man arrested in California.

Mrs. Dolan stuck to her guns, guns, however.

She said, "The indentation in that man's chin is not a scar like my husband had. My husband did not have a bump on his ear like the man in that picture. And also that man looks like he wore glasses and Blackie didn't wear glasses in all his life. It resembles him but I say it is not Dolan."

"I could have backed up and took a picture that looks more like Dolan than that one," said Mrs. Dolan.

"They will have to bring me more than that before I will say that man is my husband, as far as I am concerned I have buried my last Dolan," she said.

The convention was held in the Hotel Heidelberg.

Mrs. Kern and Mrs. Beyers were the only two representing Hancock County.

D. J. Luc Inks Professional Baseball Contract

A former St. Stanislaus pitcher, D. J. Luc, left Saturday for Lexington, Kentucky, where he will play professional baseball.

Luc was signed to a Class "C" league contract by "Zeke" Bonura, another former athlete of Stanislaus who rose to fame in this field.

Luc said, "I have been getting in good condition because I want to go up there and do good. I have been pitching some semi-pro ball since I graduated from school to keep my arm in shape."

Luc had an impressive high school record last year having an earned run average of .000. In 42 innings he allowed five runs, gave up six hits and walked only two men.

In a semi-pro game against Petal he pitched a no-hitter, striking out 19 men in seven innings. When he is not pitching he can play first base and was high in the batting standings on the school team.

He is a left hander, six feet tall and weighs about 200 pounds. His greatest asset on the mound is his speed and a natural curve.

The Senior class of St. Stanislaus had the honor of being selected by the St. Francis de Sales High school of Houma, La., to choose the Queen and her eight maids of honor for the school annual.

Stanislaus Will Hold Graduation In A & G Theatre

St. Stanislaus will hold its graduation next month in the A & G Theatre, Brother Linus, vice-president of the college announced this week.

Considered an experiment, the idea of holding the graduation exercises in the theatre is not necessarily permanent.

"We're going to try it out this year," Brother Linus said, "because of the air conditioning and the larger seating capacity. If everything works out alright, we might continue to hold our graduation exercise at the A & G."

Graduation at Stanislaus will be held May 30 this year. Holding the ceremonies at the A & G theatre will probably be more convenient. Formerly the Stanislaus seniors received their diplomas in the college gymnasium.

Forty-five students are expected to graduate from St. Stanislaus this year.

Mrs. Charley Langley, nee Ann Jenkins, while at the Roosevelt Hotel on her honeymoon was selected with three others to try her skill at leading Sammy Kaye's orchestra.

The winner is judged according to the applause of the audience and Mrs. Langley was selected in first place.

New System For Students

The A & G and Star theaters have started a new system in student tickets. Cards have been printed and distributed to the schools. This card will show that the holder is a student and will allow him and she to purchase a regular student ticket.

If the students do not present this card at the window they must pay adult prices. System is only for the local boys and girls of school age.

These special cards must be signed by the students and the principal of the school they attend.

The manager of the show reserves the right to take these cards away from the owner for misbehavior in the show or the loaning of their card to someone else.

Herbert Sun, foreman of the rig in this county said he could not reveal how deep the Sun Oil Co. intended to drill. "This is a tight well," he said, "and I can't give

A large bulldozer has been secured to remove 250 stumps from the Pass Christian Isles Golf Course.

This project will enable the grass cutters to do a more thorough job and will help the golfers in their game.

Saturday was guest day at the club and 70 golfers from other cities on the coast and New Orleans toured the course.

An Easter week-end camping party which was a honey was that participated in by John Sibley, and son David, and two of his classmates at L. S. U., Smitty and White; Jack Meares, of Camp, La.; Luke Elliott of Baton Rouge, and Dec Elliott, Fishing, camping and cooking (camp style) were the main attractions.

A. C. Mitchell and Joe Kern made a quick run out to the Keys in Joe's Lyman hull with 25 hp Johnson, Monday and caught some nice specks.

Denny Tonkel and friend were fly fishing in Jordan River over the weekend. Don't know exactly just what they caught.

Soft crabs and flounders are doing their part just now—they are being caught in large numbers each night. Space is not enough to list those seen out the past week-end. The crabs that are not being caught are being trampled to death by the number of lights seen out front of late. Keep after them. The old oil torches, gasoline lights and flash lights are being put to good use.

Harry C. Glover, Sr.

While he attended St. Stanislaus he broke the state record for pole vaulting with a height of 11 ft. 3 in.

After graduation he entered Tulane University where he was the second four letter man to attend this college. He was a catcher on the baseball team and pole vaulted for the track team. He played guard on the University's basketball team and he starred on the Tulane football team.

In the Rose Bowl in 1932, Wop made two sensational runs, one for 67 yards and the other for 69 yards.

At the present time he is director of the Metairie playgrounds and very active in the kids' recreation program in New Orleans.

Hickey And Frye Win Second Round Of Golf Tourney

In the second round of the Pass Christian Isles Golf Club, ladies' match play, Mrs. O. D. Hickey defeated Mrs. John Foster and Miss Maude Frye won over Miss Ann Liversedge.

He continued his activity from this point by entering and winning the Golden Gloves in Biloxi. In his first bout he won by a knockout over a boy from Mobile in the first round. In the finals he won a unanimous decision over another sailor from Pensacola.

Two weeks after the Biloxi tournament Terrell fought in a benefit fight for a disabled fighter. He met Ralph Redman, who he had beaten previously in Biloxi, and ran his string of victories to 34, without a defeat.

After a month layoff Terrell journeyed to New Orleans to fight on a boxing card at the St. Mary's C. Y. O. and knocked out Vic Villafra, one of Wiley Esnault's boys in the third round.

Where will the fighting Randolph go from here. He said, "I am going to go to L. S. U. and tryout for the boxing team. I am going to get in top shape and I sure hope I can make the team." He will major in business administration.

Terrell's successful amateur career started when he was in the fifth grade at Bay High. He won four State championships in the following years. Then they discontinued boxing in the schools in Mississippi and Terrell gave up the sport until this year.

In answer to a traditional question asked most boxers, "What was the hardest bout you ever had?", he said, "The hardest fight I ever had was in Mobile, when I spotted Bobby Watson 18 pounds. This bout was in the Senior Bowl. He had a terrific punch and it was the only fight I ever blacked out in. The only way I could win it was by using left hooks and straight rights to keep him away from me. I was glad to hear the bell ring for the end of the fight."

One of the dream matches which some boxing men in New Orleans would like to see would be Terrell and Bob Morgan, Pat Donahue's sensational amateur from Algiers.

Randolph has organized a boxing team from Bay St. Louis and plans to have matches in Mobile and New Orleans over the summer holidays. "This will help keep me in good condition for when I enter college," he said.

Terrell has had some offers to turn to the professional ranks but has turned them down. He said, "I may think about them after I get out of college, but right now

One of the outstanding high school athletes in town is Terrell Randolph, a senior at Bay High. His most consistent sport has been boxing and it is the only one he is participating in now, as a welterweight.

Terrell played quarterback on the Bay High football team this year before beginning his tour of the boxing tournaments. In his first encounter this year in the ring he won the Senior Bowl tournament in Mobile. He reached the finals by a forfeit and won it by a decision over a boy from Pensacola Navy Base.

His next bouts were in the Golden Gloves tourney in Mobile. There he defeated boys from Sauffly Field, Pensacola and Fort Benning, Ga.
